legislature. Light may be a good man, an attempt would be made last night out to reform the state and the county and all past legislation. Now, if there were a majority of Lights in the Senate and House, it would be different, but the probabilities are that if Light is elected he will be the only one of his kind. Now, what could be accomplish with his highly wrought theories, which faithful investigation would prove impracticable. Mr. Light might discover an imaginary rat in the meal barrel, but what of it? For a week Light would prove an amusing diversion and then the house would sit down on him and extinguish his lightwood knot illuminator, and he at Tallahassee, and his record is a business.
